Testimony:

I was born in a Christian family and I was taught what it means to follow Jesus. The Sunday school was very instrumental in shaping my life for Jesus. In secondary school, I became an active member of the Bible study group. After my secondary school, I was appointed as a primary school teacher where I taught Christian education among other subjects.

Six years ago, I felt God calling me to be his messenger. After much thought and prayer, I obeyed the call. I left the teaching job for theological training at Matana Theological Institute. After my studies at Matana, I was appointed as the Diocesan Youth Coordinator. After a short time, I was sponsored for a youth certificate course at Carlile College.

Light from secondary school, I have seen God working in me and through me as I minister to people. Many have accepted Jesus as their personal saviour, many have been able to do more in their lives (capacity building). Many youths have come to appreciate themselves and are working hard to build their lives guided by the gospel of Jesus Christ.

I look forward to be more equipped for the ministry especially in planting churches and managing social transformation. I need support to achieve this objective.
